DRYSDALE ONCE MORE BEFORE THE JUDGE

A record was established in police court this morning, for among the unfortunate who were brought before Judge W. H. Reeder there was not a prisoner with a charge of drunkenness placed against him.

There were disturbers of the peace and a petty larcenist, who owed their arrest to liquor, but the absence of the common variety of drunk was noticed by the morning attendants at the court.

Samuel Drysdale was the first man to stand before his honor this morning. He was charged with disturbing the peace by fighting upon the streets. From his appearance he was the one that did all the fighting, because he bore no marks except the evidences of his recent contest with the smallpox.

According to the officers, he was engaged in a fight near the Orpheum candy kitchen, but he extended the field of his activities to the neighborhood of Hudson avenue and Twenty-fifth street, where he was arrested by Patrolman Hearn.

Drysdale claimed that if he was in a fight of any sort he did not remember it. He knows that he drank enough whisky to make him forget his name, and since drinking the whisky he has forgotten where he purchased it.

Judge Reeder is puzzled as to what to do in the case of the young man. Drysdale served a sentence of 30 days last spring and at that time he promised to become a law-abiding citizen. His case was taken under advisement until tomorrow morning.

SPANIARDS IN THE POLICE COURT

That the enmity existing between the Castilians and the underclass of Spain can extend to this country was made evident this morning in police court in the case of two Spaniards, charged with fighting. The principals in the case are Joe Morra, a Castilian, and Antonio Sagar, who belongs to the lower classes.

According to the stories told, the fight which occurred Saturday night on Wall avenue originated over the taking of two cigars from the pocket of Morra. Sagar had two friends of his class in court who testified for him. They claimed that the Castilian asked Sagar for a cigar and was given one. Sagar then found that Morra had two cigars in his pocket and a quarrel resulted when Morra was reproached for asking for cigars when he already had two. The quarrel ended in a fight in which the Castilian came out the loser, although the witnesses claimed he drew a knife. His face was badly cut and bruised this morning.

Morra, however, told a different story. He said that he was approached by Sagar and his two friends Saturday night and they started a quarrel. He said that he was obliged to draw his pocket knife to defend himself, but before he succeeded in getting away from them the three had succeeded in getting his watch and a bunch of keys. Evidently he thought he was not being believed by the court, for he said proudly:

"I am a Castilian."

Whether or not he told the truth, Assistant City Attorney John Heywood was impressed with the story and he asked for a continuance so the case can be investigated further. The continuance was granted by Judge Reeder, who set the case for Wednesday morning.

ELECTRICAL BALL TO BE BRILLIANT

From all indications the grand electrical ball to be given by local union No. 216, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, at the Colonial academy on February 18, 20 and 21, will excel all former balls given by that organization.

The electrical decorations of last year were the cause of innumerable favorable remarks, but the members promise that the effects to be produced this year will outshine all others.

War and Labor Depress Market. New York, Feb. 3.—Developments over Sunday were not reassuring to the bull faction and the bears had the upper hand during the early operations on the stock market today. Like that of a resumption of hostilities in the Balkans and the possibility of war troubles in the steel industry had the effect of depressing values. Trading was held in check by uncertainty whether the supreme court would hand down the Minnesota rate decision today. Marked declines were confined to a comparatively few issues, however, and later in the forenoon there was a gradual recovery. Union Pacific's strength contrasted sharply with the heaviness of Southern Pacific.

Bonds were steady.

WORLD'S MARKETS

Chicago, Feb. 3.—Two to eight inches of snow in Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri had a bearish effect on wheat. A big increase in the amount of wheat on ocean passage counted also against the bulls. Cables were ignored. The opening was 1-4 to 3-8 1-2 lower. May started at 93 1-4 to 93 3-8, a drop of 1-4 to 3-8 to 3-8 and declined to 93 1-8.

May corn opened a shade to 1-8 1-4 off at 52 1-8 to 52 1-4 and then rose to 52 3-8 to 1-2.

May oats, which started unchanged at 34, declined to 33 7-8 to 34.

Provisions appeared a little heavy, owing to buyers' wants being soon supplied. First sales ranged from Saturday night's level to 5 lower, including May at 19 1/8 for pork, and 10 1/8 for lard and ribs.

Smallness of visible wheat supply decrease tended to weaken the market yet more. The close was nervous with May 1-2 net lower at 93 1-8 to 1-4. Lightness of acceptance helped to keep the corn market firm. The close was 1-4 net higher for May at 52 1-2 to 5-8.
